

European Cup 2008

The European Cup (earlier Kraichgau Cup) based on the European United Cup, developed and invented by Erik Joustra in 1986 was under Dutch control for years. The last official result was played in 1993. Because there couldn't be played a full competition after 1994, the idea has been found to use this successful system for a regional competition. From 1995 the German Cup was yearly played and mastered by Joschi Ament (and Stephan Rink). In 2004 this German Cup has been changed again to the European Cup.

Adrian Mutu personally kicked PSV out of the UEFA Cup tournament. Unfortunately he will be one of Holland's opponents in the group stage of the European Championships this summer. If he can beat Gomes, I'm afraid having van der Sar in the goal isn't enough...

EDITORIAL

Hi everybody,

In this issue you will find the results of the first round. Unfortunately email problems forced me to delay this issue with a week, but let's have a positive look at it. That could have been worse as well. By the way, please notice that I will always send a receipt confirmation by reply. If you don't receive the reply within 3 or 4 days, something went wrong.

Although I was very flexible with managers, sending several reminders and delaying the deadline with half a week, I was forced to make some unpopular decisions:

- I disqualified all teams of Florian Lenz and the team of Patrik Prekopp. Next season I won't accept submissions of these two managers, since they were even not able to send a single message to me.
- I disqualified the teams of Sebastian Volle and Stefan Vickus. Since they sent me a message to tell me that they couldn't find time, I will happily welcome them next season again.

It's always a pity (and I do it with pain in my heart) to disqualify teams, especially because they directly hurt the ranking of their leagues. Therefore I advise GMs to communicate European Cup participation with the appropriate managers in advance.

However, I'm happy that there were very little mistakes in this first round. Everybody who made one, has received a mail from me.

One of the managers asked me an interesting question about the emergency turn: "Why contains the order form a table for the emergency turn? If somebody doesn't send orders, he neither sends an emergency turn." I will explain this again for security. In the first round everybody should send his/her emergency turn with his/her orders. Who doesn't send orders (and emergency turn) in the first round, will be disqualified, because there's no emergency turn yet. I will use this emergency turn for managers who don't send orders later in the season. Managers are allowed to change their emergency turn during the season, but the amount of VP that can be used is always equal to the basic value (the value at the start of the season). However, I still want managers to send orders regularly. So if a manager doesn't send orders twice in a row or for the third time in a season, I will disqualify him/her, no matter if there is an emergency turn or not.

On the first of May I will travel to Holland again. That was why I wanted to put the deadline one week earlier than I did now. You can all help me a lot by sending your orders quite in time, so I can do some work in Hungary before I leave. In that way there's a good chance that there will be no delay next time.

Cheers, Daniël.

DEADLINE: FRIDAY MAY THE 2ND 2008 10 P.M.!!!

Probable next deadlines: 23 May, 13 June, 4 July, 8 August

There are 40 participating teams in the Champions League this season. The first round will be a „normal“ knock-out round with the winners of the two legs proceeding to the next round. The 12 best losers (best means (in this order): most points, best goal difference, most scored goals, most scored goals away, drawing lots) will also get a place in the next round. The remaining 8 teams will be eliminated. The 20 winners score 0.5 point for their league as a result of qualifying for the next round. The 12 lucky losers won't. Of course, like always, all proceeding teams will get VPs and all teams will earn the appropriate points for their leagues according to their performances in this round.

There are 62 participating teams in the UEFA Cup this season. The first round will be a „normal“ knock-out round with the winners of the two legs proceeding to the next round. The best loser (best means (in this order): most points, best goal difference, most scored goals, most scored goals away, drawing lots) will also get a place in the next round. The remaining 30 teams will be eliminated. The 31 winners score 0.5 point for their league as a result of qualifying for the next round. The lucky loser won't. Of course, like always, all proceeding teams will get VPs and all teams will earn the appropriate points for their leagues according to their performances in this round..
